Обо мне

I am a highly motivated .NET Developer with two years of programming experience, focusing on web development. I have experience in the software development life cycle, including design, coding, debugging and maintenance. A team player with excellent communication skills, always willing to learn new technologies and improve my knowledge. I also don't forget about learning new language features. I read about platform updates, apply new knowledge locally and while working, and also study modern front-end development technologies I am also working hard to learn English. At the moment my level is B1.
